

Jorge Uriel Nájera Mora (b. 1987, Guadalajara, Mexico)

After coursing music production at the Alchemea Institute in London, I enrolled and completed the academic programme of Bachelor of Arts in Audiovisual Media at CAAV, Centro de Arte Audiovisual, in Guadalajara, Mexico (2007 - 2010).

I have performed live in different festivals and shows in western Mexico and I have released my debut album, La Faible Lueur du Siècle, inspired in the work of Yves Klein, under the netlabel AMP-Recs in 2011 (amp089).

My activity focuses on adding temporary elements to an environment in order to create an ambience where contemplation is encouraged and where natural phenomena can find representation. Recent displays of my work include group exhibitions at Museo de Arte de Zapopan, Zapopan; the Kadist Art Foundation, San Francisco; Museo Raúl Anguiano, Guadalajara; MOD IV, Guadalajara; amongst others.

I find myself immersed in a field that encounters no restrictions in the use of resources, and so, I am able to work with a vast variety of materials, spanning from concrete, steel, latex, pigments and smoke, to circuits, sound, video and digital media.
